2010 Annual SoCalBio Conference Sponsorship Opportunities

The Annual SoCalBio Conference showcases emerging Southern California biotech and device companies and technologies seeking funding and partnerships. It also provides a forum for various stakeholders to engage in a discourse over how to sustain biotech and medtech innovations in the current economy.

2010

Fostering innovation, investment and partnership.

The Southern California Biomedical Council (SoCalBio) represents more than 250 of the Los Angeles region's leading biotechnology and medical device/diagnostics firms and research institutions. By sponsoring SoCalBio, you and your organization will enjoy unsurpassed access to these top decision makers. You will also help support our region's economic vitality and the development of life-saving innovations poised to transform healthcare in new and exciting ways.
